

AuthenticWeb™ for Contract Provisions

Combines key regulatory information covering policy contracts in an easily understandable format with tools allowing users to identify specific language requirements quickly and easily, the first time.

AuthenticWeb Benefits:

- Efficiently address research needs for contract provisions. Obtain answers to the key regulatory questions impacting contract language development processes within an insurance company.
- Expedite the creation of policy language through immediate access to state-mandated language excerpts. Take the guesswork out of provision language requirements.
- Easily monitor changes in requirements.
- Accelerate your ability to get new products to market faster.

Overview

Product managers face ever-increasing demands to achieve improved speed-to-market objectives that drive attainment of corporate revenue goals. A delay in the introduction of a new or revised program carries with it millions of dollars in lost revenue opportunity cost. Avoiding this outcome must be accomplished in an environment of complex and frequently changing regulatory requirements, and with reduced resources.

Understanding the requirements, product managers have realized the critical nature of adherence to detailed individual contract language requirements, and have tried a number of different approaches to equip staff with effective tools. Many have attempted to create tools internally by relying on public web sites for source information; others have attempted to rely on costly external consultants. All have fallen short on critical elements of effectiveness and return on investment. AuthenticWeb can help.

AuthenticWeb for Contract Provisions is a web-based search engine specifically designed for product development professionals. Using AuthenticWeb's intuitive research features, users and managers quickly access easy-to-read research summaries of state requirements covering contract provisions and required language links in all states. Monthly updates and e-mail alerts keep users current on changes in requirements.

Value

Our compliance professionals have read and analyzed the requirements—writing research summaries to help product development professionals quickly identify what is required and how their business is affected.

Combines key regulatory information covering policy contracts in an easily understandable format with tools allowing users to identify specific language requirements quickly and easily, the first time.

More than just content, the addition of analytical summaries and indexing provide context—helping you quickly identify what is required. AuthenticWeb for Contract Provisions—powered by NILS INSource™, the most trusted name in insurance compliance content—uses an intuitive search feature to get users to the information they need quickly and easily. Identifying provisional language and related requirements has never been easier or faster. Multiple search result options allow you increased flexibility in how you view search results.

Communication of requirements to the people who need to know has never been easier. Maintenance is painless—every time the user refreshes the screen, the most current content is available seamlessly.

AuthenticWeb for Contract Provisions contains several user-friendly features, including:

- Expert Summaries—Obtain answers to the key regulatory questions impacting contract language development processes within an insurance company.
- Required Language Links—Expedite the creation of policy language through immediate access to state-mandated language excerpts.
- E-Mail Alerts—Stay abreast of regulatory changes by subject matter, jurisdiction, and line of business.
- Industry Experts—Rely on support from industry professionals, insurance attorneys, and former insurance regulators.

AuthenticWeb for Contract Provisions is available on a flat fee license allowing an unlimited number of users. To find out more about AuthenticWeb for Contract Provisions, or to request a demonstration, please visit www.insurance.cch.com or contact us at 800.481.1522.

To learn more details or to request a demo, please call us at 800.481.1522 or visit us at www.insurance.cch.com

